Produced by a team that's worked with such diverse acts as Christina Aguilera, Eminem, Boy George and Alex M.O.R.P.H. to name but a few, Trance ID features more than 1,000 loops and 260 related single sounds that draw stylistically from such progressive trance gods as Paul Van Dyk, Tiesto and Armin Van Buuren. Highly sophisticated and polished for commercial club and radio styles, the library features a huge variety of complimentary synth sequences, lead phrases and effects that can be cross-matched and mutated in exciting ways.

The beats are fierce and bass lines are tight, as are the main and alternative lead phrases. The fresh and inspiring content stands out from other libraries I've auditioned lately.

Some of the coolest stuff resides in the Intros/Outros folders, which are based on layered builds and breakdowns of the visually inspired pads and cinematic-like effects sounds contained in each kit. From euphoric and high energy to chilled and floaty, Trance ID is exquisitely produced and a beautiful adventure through modern sound design.
